SUBSCRIPTION RULES PACK, JULY 2026. Pulled for the Larkfield quarterly audit. Fictional states, a fictional city and a fictional business, invented for testing. The rules and the wording below are the authoritative rulebook for this exercise. Treat them as correct and complete, and do not rely on outside knowledge of any auto renewal law, any federal rule, any agency, or any court decision.

SECTION 1. THE FEDERAL STATUTE, THE ONLINE RENEWAL DISCLOSURE ACT (ORDA).

1.1 ORDA has been in force since 1 December 2010 and has not been amended since. It is the only federal statute in this pack.

1.2 Its scope, in its own words. ORDA applies to 'any person who sells or offers to sell any goods or services through a transaction effected on the Internet'. A transaction that is not effected on the Internet is outside ORDA. The statute has no other scope test: it does not turn on what is sold, on the price, or on the length of the term.

1.3 What ORDA requires of a seller inside 1.2 who charges a consumer on a negative option feature. (a) Clear and conspicuous disclosure of all material terms of the transaction before obtaining the consumer's billing information. (b) The consumer's express informed consent before the charge is made. (c) 'Simple mechanisms for a consumer to stop recurring charges from being placed on the consumer's credit card, debit card, bank account, or other financial account.'

1.4 What 1.3(c) does not say, and this matters because it is often read as saying it. ORDA says 'simple mechanism' and stops there. It does not name a medium. It does not require the mechanism to be in the same medium the consumer used to consent. It does not require the mechanism to be offered in every medium the seller accepts consent in. It does not require a renewal reminder of any kind and it sets no notice window.

1.5 ORDA is a floor. It does not preempt a state or local rule that requires more, and compliance with ORDA is not compliance with anything else.

In force 1 December 2010. Unamended.

SECTION 2. THE PRENOTIFICATION PLAN RULE.

2.1 What happened, so that it is not in doubt. A federal rule on negative option marketing was issued in 2024 and was VACATED IN ITS ENTIRETY on 8 July 2025. The vacatur was on a procedural ground and it went to the whole rule. The rule's own severability clause did not save any part of it. None of the 2024 rule's requirements are law, and none of them appear anywhere in this pack. Do not apply any of them, and do not treat anything as required because that rule required it.

2.2 What is in force. On 12 February 2026 the rulemaker recodified the pre-2024 rule text in full and unchanged, under the name the Prenotification Plan Rule. It is current, binding federal law from that date.

2.3 The Plan Rule's scope, in its own words. The Plan Rule applies to a 'prenotification negative option plan', which the Rule defines as 'a plan in which the seller sends periodic announcements which offer merchandise to the subscriber and in which the seller sends the merchandise to, and creates an obligation to pay in, any subscriber who has not, by the date specified by the seller, returned to the seller a form requesting that the merchandise not be sent'. The definition turns on merchandise being sent by default after an announcement the subscriber did not decline. A plan under which access, a service or a licence simply continues, where nothing is announced and no merchandise is sent, is not a prenotification negative option plan and the Plan Rule does not reach it.

2.4 What the Plan Rule requires where it reaches a plan. The seller must disclose the plan's material terms in its promotional material, must give the subscriber at least ten days from the announcement to return the form, must send the merchandise within the time it has stated, must accept a cancellation of the plan at any time from a subscriber who writes to the seller, and must credit a subscriber who returns merchandise that was sent because the seller mishandled a form.

2.5 The rulemaker's own estimate, from the recodification notice. The rulemaker stated that it believes approximately 25 sellers nationwide operate prenotification negative option plans, and that the Plan Rule's compliance burden falls on those sellers.

In force 12 February 2026.

SECTION 3. THE MARCH 2026 ADVANCE NOTICE.

3.1 On 11 March 2026 the rulemaker published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking on negative option marketing.

3.2 What it contains. No rule text and no proposed rule. It asks questions: whether a rule beyond the Plan Rule is needed at all, whether the Plan Rule should be kept, narrowed or repealed, and what evidence there is either way.

3.3 Its status. The comment period closed on 27 April 2026. As of the date of this pack no proposed rule has been published. An advance notice imposes nothing on anybody, and there is no text in it to comply with, build against, or plan to.

Published 11 March 2026. Comment closed 27 April 2026. No proposed rule as of the date of this pack.

SECTION 4. CALDERON, THE CALDERON AUTOMATIC RENEWAL ACT.

4.1 Scope. The Act applies to an automatic renewal offered to a consumer in Calderon for goods or services primarily for personal, family or household purposes. A purchase by a business for its own business use is outside the Act. The Act does not turn on the medium the offer is made in and it reaches an offer made in any medium.

4.2 Renewal notice. Where the term of the subscription is one year or longer, the seller must send the consumer a renewal notice not less than 15 days and not more than 45 days before the renewal date, stating the fact of the renewal, the price and how to cancel. There is no notice duty on a term shorter than one year, and the Act imposes no separate duty on a free trial.

4.3 Cancellation. The seller must let the consumer cancel in the same medium the consumer used to consent to the offer. Where the seller accepts consent online, cancellation must be available online. Where the seller accepts consent by telephone, cancellation must be available by telephone. It is not enough that some other medium is offered instead.

4.4 Nothing in this Act turns on a retention or save offer.

In force 1 January 2019. Amended, and the amendment at 4.3 took effect 1 July 2025.

SECTION 5. OSTMARK, THE OSTMARK CONTINUOUS SERVICE ACT.

5.1 Scope. The Act applies to a continuous service offered to a consumer in Ostmark for personal, family or household purposes. A purchase by a business for its own business use is outside the Act.

5.2 Renewal notice. Where the term is six months or longer, the seller must send the consumer a renewal notice not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days before the renewal date. There is no notice duty on a term shorter than six months, and the Act imposes no separate duty on a free trial.

5.3 Cancellation. The seller must accept a cancellation through every medium in which the seller accepts consent to the offer. If the seller accepts consent online, by telephone and by post, the seller must accept cancellation online, by telephone and by post. This is broader than a same medium rule: it does not matter which medium a particular consumer used, only which media the seller takes consent in.

5.4 Retention offers. Where the seller presents a retention offer, a discount, a pause or any other alternative to cancellation as part of the cancellation flow, the seller must display a link or button that completes the cancellation continuously and proximately to that offer, on the same screen, for as long as the offer is displayed. An offer that takes the consumer to a further screen before the cancellation is available does not satisfy this section.

In force 1 March 2022. Amended, and the amendment at 5.4 took effect 1 January 2026.

SECTION 6. VANTRY, THE VANTRY SUBSCRIPTION RENEWAL ACT.

6.1 Scope, and it changed. As enacted, the Act applied to purchases 'primarily for personal, family or household purposes'. The amendment of 3 February 2026 deleted that limitation. The Act now applies to an automatic renewal offered to any purchaser in Vantry, for any purpose, including a purchase by a business for its own business use. There is no business exemption in the Act.

6.2 Renewal notice. Where the term is one year or longer, the seller must send the purchaser a renewal notice not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days before the renewal date. There is no notice duty on a term shorter than one year, and the Act imposes no separate duty on a free trial.

6.3 Cancellation. The seller must make cancellation available without unreasonable delay through a method disclosed to the purchaser at the time of the offer. The Act does not say which medium, and it requires no relationship between the cancellation medium and the medium the purchaser consented in.

6.4 Nothing in this Act turns on a retention or save offer.

In force 1 September 2023. Amended, and the amendment at 6.1 took effect 3 February 2026.

SECTION 7. SELWICK, THE SELWICK RENEWAL DISCLOSURE ACT.

7.1 Scope. The Act applies to an automatic renewal offered to a consumer in Selwick for personal, family or household purposes.

7.2 Notice, and it is a narrow one. The Act requires a notice only where the subscription began with a free trial or a discounted introductory period that converts to a paid term. That notice must be sent not less than 3 days and not more than 21 days before the trial or introductory period converts. The Act requires no renewal notice at any term length. A subscription with no trial carries no notice duty under this Act however long its term is.

7.3 Cancellation. The seller must make cancellation available by a method the consumer can use without having to speak to a person. The Act does not require the cancellation method to match the medium the consumer consented in, and it says nothing about telephone cancellation.

7.4 Retention offers. Where the seller presents a retention offer or any other alternative to cancellation during the cancellation flow, a means of completing the cancellation must be continuously and proximately displayed alongside the offer. The consumer must not have to move to a further screen, or dismiss the offer, to reach it.

In force 1 May 2024.

SECTION 8. KESTRELPORT, A CITY IN SELWICK, THE KESTRELPORT SUBSCRIPTION RENEWAL ORDINANCE.

8.1 What it is. A city ordinance, adopted by Kestrelport on 14 April 2026. It applies to renewals occurring on or after 1 October 2026.

8.2 Who it reaches. A seller with a subscriber whose billing address is in Kestrelport, for that subscriber. It applies in addition to the Selwick Act. Section 7 does not preempt it, and nothing done under section 7 satisfies it.

8.3 What it requires. Where the term is three months or longer, the seller must send the subscriber a renewal notice not less than 20 days and not more than 40 days before the renewal date, stating the renewal date, the amount and how to cancel. There is no duty on a term shorter than three months.

8.4 The Ordinance says nothing about cancellation media and nothing about retention offers.

Adopted 14 April 2026. Applies to renewals occurring on or after 1 October 2026.

SECTION 9. HOW THESE FIT TOGETHER.

9.1 Every rule in this pack has its own scope, and the scope is the first question. A rule that does not reach a plan imposes nothing on that plan, whatever the rule says, and whatever a rule that does reach it says.

9.2 Where more than one rule reaches a plan, the plan has to satisfy each of them on its own terms. Nothing in this pack lets compliance with one rule stand in for compliance with another, and nothing lets the federal floor answer a state or a local question.

9.3 Where two rules both require a notice, one notice satisfies both only if the notice actually sent falls inside both windows. A notice inside one window and outside the other satisfies only the one it falls inside.
